... grades of A, A-, B+, B, B- ... credits. Courses graded with symbols which have no grade ... of grade point averages. The semester average includes only work taken during the current ... cumulative average includes all applicable work completed at The Pennsylvania State University. Total credits earned represents all credits accumulated from all sources including Penn State. W symbols indicate withdrawal from the University. WP, WF, WN symbols indicate course dropped after regular drop deadline.

WARNING – UNDERGRADUATES ONLY (APPLIES ONLY IF WARNING APPEARS IN ACTION AREA ON GRADE REPORT) – An official notification of unsatisfactory progress towards degree requirements due to failure to maintain the minimum 2.00 cumulative average required for graduation as evidenced by a grade point deficiency. A grade point deficiency exists when total grade points for courses graded A through F are less than cumulative credits times 2. Any grade point deficiency will result in a WARNING unless drop action is taken under other policies.
Example: A student with 34 cumulative credits who has earned 66 grade points would have a grade point deficiency of 2 and would receive an academic warning calculated as follows:
(34 x 2 = 68 then 68 – 66 = 2 grade points deficient).
See Section 51 – 00 and 54 – 00 of Undergraduate Policies and Procedures. Students subject to warning action should consult with their adviser or Dean of their College.

GRADUATE STUDENTS – A cumulative grade point average below 3.00 may be considered evidence of failure to maintain satisfactory scholarship and may result in drop action at the program level. DEGREE SOUGHT - PROV printed in action area on grade report indicates provisional admission. Regulations regarding this temporary classification should be reviewed in the Graduate School Catalog.

LAW STUDENTS - REFER TO THE DICKINSON SCHOOL OF LAW STUDENT HANDBOOK FOR EXPLANATION OF GRADES.

Instructor's Comments Concerning the Final Examination

It is often helpful to begin arguing your thesis with an illustration — the problem's relevance, dimensions, significance or the like - but your opening "metaphor" occupies three full pages, nearly 50% of the essay. Tail has begun to wag dog, and reader gropes for perspective! More thought about proper wiring of circuits during pre-writing stage of composition would have led you to begin with something more general, on the order of your concluding paragraph. In a general essay of this kind you must avoid wheels-within-wheels, "baroque" approach. Go first for the safe, ordered "classical" outline — e.g., the knowledgeable people who are dangerous (experts in one area who lack self-knowledge) the areas of learning predicated on self-knowledge ek

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Martin Balestie of Montvideo, Uruguay, studied trumpet with me at the University of Michigan Division of the National Music Camp, Interlochen, Michigan, during the summer session of 1979. Mr. Balestie made great strides in his trumpet skills and responded well to my teaching methods. At the end of this session he asked if he might continue his trumpet study a bit more with me at the University of Louisville. I agreed; however, due to obstacles which I do not understand concerning his alien status, he has not been able to register as a student at the University of Louisville. I wish to help Mr. Balestie in any manner possible and have offered to provide private study for the balance of the term without payment; moreover, he would recieve no college credit nor be formally registered in any way. I understand that a "tourist" visa would enable him to remain a bit longer in this country and accept such study and would encourage any responsible authority to make this possible.

Sincerely,

J. Jerome Amend
